

Forty hours on court

SPORTS courts at Elim Christian College are set to see some action this weekend with a 40-hour famine fundraiser inspiring a volleyball marathon.

Students will play for 40 hours from 7am tomorrow until 11 pm on Saturday to raise money for World Vision.

Traditionally 40-hour famine participants have opted to fast, only allowing themselves liquids or barley sugars but in recent years students have become more creative in raising money for the cause.

Several other Auckland schools will be involved in the event and spectators are asked to make a gold donation.
